We Need Your Voice: Are we facing a P2 crisis or opportunity?

There's three questions on all our minds...

Is our country truly divided?

Can we still make good decisions together?

What is my role in this context?

In these tough questions, there is a rare and crucial opportunity for you and our organization to showcase public participation's role in working across divides at just the right moment in time.

Join IAP2 Board members, local experts, Symposium trainers and participants as we work together via a World Café to test public participation's ability to unite us against what potentially divides us in a time of high conflict and uncertainty.

As a first-of-its kind session for the organization, what we learn in San Diego will help inform decisions about how best to have the conversation at the national level. Ideas will be shared across IAP2 USA's network of over 2,000 members and friends, as well as through its outreach to chapters and our international network.

Date: February 27th, 2017
5:30 – 7:00 (PST)
